

TYRONE, PA. February 4, 1935.

Our United States Supreme Court.

Those far-seeing boys that framed our Constitution certainly did a wise and noble thing when they put the United States Supreme Court at the head of our big family. Sad it would be without their presence and last authority.

The actions of Congress in 1932 put us in mind of a growing boy that found a new sensation in a particular stunt till Pop put on the brakes.

When a gang of kids get together, each one has the "best" idea and in their effort to get their ideas adopted, they break into a general mix. After a session of unearthly sounds and a few punches, the big boy of the gang gets the first chance at his idea. That was our 1932 Congress when most every one thought the United States of America was going to the dogs.

Isn't it strange that so little was blamed on the real cause of the depression---our Investment and Banking practices. Over-production wasn't thought of till some "Brain Trusters" came along and said we had too much to eat and too much to wear. Then it developed into "over-production" as the cause of our troubles. We killed, destroyed and plowed under necessities of life. Today living cost is mounting at a rate that will soon put most families on bread and water.

If the Supreme Court upholds the Constitution, which they will do, then the spanking our Government gets will finally put the brakes on and cause it to see the foolishness of the many, many things now in force. Now is the time for Papa to spank.

C.O. Miller