Dear Sam:

You've raised some excellent points about the pending banking deregulation legislation. Although I won't have much opportunity for input into the legislation while in Committee, I have been following the issue and appreciate your perspective.

Regarding a moratorium, I could support it as an interim measure if it's across the board and comprehensive. But I'm sure you agree that Congress must face up to the complex issues involved in financial services deregulation. If you have any further thoughts, I'd be interested to hear them.

You can be sure that I'm watching this one closely, Sam, and appreciate your taking the time to write. It's always good to hear from you.

With best regards,

Mickey Edwards
Member of Congress
